Forman School offers a four-week (July 3-28), coed boarding and day program for students entering grades 7-11 who would benefit from an individualized approach to learning. For over 80 years, Forman has empowered students to understand their unique learning styles, while building specific skills and strategies for success. Forman welcomes bright students with learning differences like dyslexia, ADHD, or executive function issues to take advantage of a the program under the leadership of highly trained faculty. This program provides a safe, stimulating and supportive environment for students to practice skills essential for success, all while having fun and making friends for a lifetime. Mornings are dedicated to individualized academic growth with coursework in key areas: math comprehension, reading, metacognitive strategies, executive functioning and writing. Afternoons are for fun — activities may include ceramics, tennis, golf, soccer, rock climbing, digital photography, fitness training, boat building and more. Each evening, students take part in workshops, with topics such as how to use assistive technology tools, how the brain works, developing self-advocacy skills and generating a personal action plan for the school year. Weekends and field trips include hiking, horseback riding, fishing, theme parks, movies and sporting events.
